2012 Professional Development Seminar Series

TOPIC

Organizations of all sizes, including legal departments and law firms, are increasingly storing and accessing their information and data through relatively new services that are based on the “cloud” - using web-based storage and applications. While the cloud may be convenient and cost-effective for its users, laws and professional responsibility are not always taken into account. Some of the issues involved are regulatory compliance, due diligence, privacy and security, data flow and ownership and confidentiality.*

Discussion Themes:

- Use of the cloud in relation to the practice of law
- Risks associated with lawyers using the cloud
- The impact of the cloud regarding professional obligations
