The Changing Role of General Counsel*

Join us on Thursday, October 11, 2012 for a CLE Program and Lunch

Program Description:

Today's general counsel is a strategic member of his or her company's executive management, playing a significant role in a company's internal and external activities. GCs have much broader responsibilities than ever before in not just advising the company, but also minimizing risks, controlling costs, and determining the proper allocation of legal work between internal and external advisors. At this seminar we will discuss key issues that affect the changing role of general counsel in today's legal landscape, while drawing on real-life experiences from industry panel members.

Panelists:

Stephen Bodley, Senior Vice President and General Counsel, Sherritt International
Kathleen Flynn, General Counsel and Corporate Secretary, Indigo Books & Music Inc.
Dorothy Quann, Vice President, General Counsel & Secretary, Xerox Canada
Mark Richardson, Vice President and General Counsel, Toronto Port Authority
Steven Trumper, General Counsel, Build Toronto

Moderator: Lisa Borsook, Managing Partner, WeirFoulds LLP

Facilitator: Sanjeev Dhawan, Senior Counsel, Hydro One Networks Inc. and President of the Association of Corporate Counsel's Ontario Chapter
