2012 Professional Development Seminar Series

TOPIC

In December, 2011 The Council of the Federation of Law Societies of Canada approved an update to the Federation's Model Code of Professional Conduct by revising the conflicts of interest rule to incorporate provisions that deal with acting against current clients. What are the implications of these new rules on lawyers in private practice and general counsel? What impact will these new rules have?*

Discussion Topics:

- How must lawyers adapt
- Will these updated reforms be adopted in Ontario?
- What are the implications for recent conflict cases?
- How do clients deal with conflicts of interest?
